State, landowners dispute waterfront

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

A Bureau of Marine Resources survey is underway in central Hancock County to aid the State of Mississippi in a land and mineral ownership dispute with local landowners.

Outcome of the dispute will effect the location of all waterfront property lines in Mississippi and possibly throughout the United States.

George M. Cole of Tallahassee, Fla. is now conducting a $44,800 'mean high water survey' for the bureau along Jourdan River and Bayou LaCroix.

Larry Lewis, BMR marine program administrator, said in Long Beach Tuesday, "The mean high water line is the dividing line between state and private property."

"The jurisdiction of BMR is below the mean high tide mark," Lewis stated.

"Cole is conducting the survey along the north shore of Bayou LaCroix east to Jourdan River and north along the west shore of the river," he explained.

The survey area roughly includes the north, east and south boundary lines of some 2,000 acres primarily owned by Cinque-Bambini Partnership of Hancock County.

County Chancery Court documents show the partnership consists of Evelyn Crump Johnson, Helen Crump Cutter, Joseph R. Crump, Armond B. Crump and Donald E. Crump.

A civil action suit filed in the county chancery court against the state some three years ago lists, in addition to the partnership, Carroll W. Allen, Lydia Carroll, Hamilton Allen, Harry B. Kelleher, Spooner Petroleum Co. and Enserch Exploration, Inc. as plaintiffs.

The apparent reason for the suit is a mean high water map prepared by the Marine Resources Council (the predecessor of BMR) with the assistance of Gulf Regional Planning Commission in Gulfport and Gulf Coast Research Laboratory in Ocean Springs in the early 1970's.

Lewis stated, "The Marine Resources Council maps show a mean high water line which is intended to be used only as a guide."

"In 1973-1974 oil companies were interested in leasing land from the state and private landowners," he noted.

"But the State Oil Lease Commission said they didn't have accurate ways of determining the state and private ownership lines, so the oil companies leased from both parties to insure their claim," Lewis explained.

"Those maps are highly inaccurate," he added.

Lewis said Cole is basing his survey on some 39 'tide stations' (also called 'benchmarks') established in a Hancock and West Harrison County study some two years ago by BMR and the National Ocean Survey.

NOS is a government agency of the U.S. Department of Commerce's National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

The bureau is now in the 'third phase' of its tide study in Jackson County.

Lewis said, "We started this study in Hancock County in March or April of 1978. That was the first phase of a three-phase program for the Gulf Coast."

"The second phase is Harrison and West Jackson Counties," he stated.

When asked if a copy of the local study is available, Lewis replied, "We have completed collecting information in Hancock County and 'preliminary data' are available from our files."

Regarding the Jourdan River survey, the administrator noted, "Cole will refine what we've done and locate the intersection of state and private property lines."

"What we've done until now is establish a reference point," he said.

Lewis said BMR issued the contract with Cole at the beginning of December.

"Cole's original plan was to finish in January, but he experienced a problem with extremely low tide levels," the administrator stated.

"He should resume work about Jan. 16 and his survey should be completed by the end of February or March," he reported.

"BMR is interested in doing what's right, regardless of the outcome. Cole is a bipartisan individual and is interested in a mean high tide mark," Lewis explained.

"The bureau is working with the State Attorney General's office as a technical consultant. We are conducting the three-phase tide study for the state," he noted.

The completed study will cost approximately $450,000.

Lewis said prior to the study there was no accurate tide information for the Gulf Coast.

"We are working with NOS to form a reference network. Mean sea level

BATTILING BEES, BLAZE—Fire Marshall Richard Pate of the Diamondhead Fire Department, left, extinguishes a blaze inside a trailer at the end of Caspian Street in Shoreline Park Tuesday afternoon. Fireman Raymond Meyers of the BaySide Volunteer Fire Department, center, swats bees away from Pate. Fireman Jimmy Varnell of the Waveland Fire Department assists. A brush fire, officials said was apparently started by children playing with fireworks, ignited the unoccupied trailer about 2:30 p.m. When firefighters first attempted to extinguish the trailer fire, bees swarmed from the structure and stung the firemen several times. The firemen retreated for a few minutes, so smoke would drive the pests away, then put out the fire. Also responding to the fire were Bob Smith of the Hancock County Chapter—American Red Cross, Bob Roney of the BaySide Fire Department and the East Hancock Fire Department. Two arrested after three week search

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Two persons wanted in Hancock County who were placed on the National Crime Information network have been apprehended, according to Alvin Ladner, Sheriff's Investigator.

Samuel J. Jordan, 18, Rt. 2, Box 24D, Bay St. Louis, was arrested by Gretna Police Saturday, according to Ladner.

Jordan is charged with allegedly pointing and aiming a deadly weapon, four counts of burglary of dwellings, one count of auto burglary, and one count of grand larceny in an auto.

Jordan was picked up Monday from Gretna by Investigator Delbert Seay and Deputy Floyd Fricke.

A 16-year-old accomplice of Jordan's was arrested by Ladner Tuesday as he hid behind a car on a Bay St. Louis Street.

The juvenile faces the same charges as Jordan, with the exception of three instead of four burglaries of a residence, according to Ladner.

The two were allegedly involved in the burglary of residences three weeks ago in the Bayou Phillips area, according to Sheriff Ronald Peterson.

Peterson said, "There may be further charges against the two as a lot of damage had been done to several of the residences they are alleged to have burglarized."

The charges of pointing and aiming a deadly weapon, Peterson stated, stemmed from an occasion when, "The two were spotted in a Bayou Phillips residence by a neighbor who went to investigate. When he went to the house, a 12-gauge shotgun and 30-30 rifle was allegedly pulled on the man."

An extensive search for the two was made by deputies and it was felt they had fled to Louisiana, Peterson said.

In another matter relating to Jordan, his father Jimmy Jordan, fled as Hancock deputies were trying to serve a warrant on him for allegedly obstructing justice Tuesday.

Ladner said, "As we went to Jimmy Jordan's residence to serve the warrant he fled into the woods. Assistance from the Bay Police was rendered in addition to Hancock Deputies but he was not apprehended. We are still looking for Jimmy Jordan."

Peterson reported that Jimmy Jordan allegedly knew his son was wanted by police, but was hiding him. Samuel Jordan was detained in the Hancock Jail Wednesday in lieu of a $35,000 bond.

The juvenile is being held pending an early youth court hearing in the youth jail, police say, since he is on a suspended commitment from the training school in Oakley, Miss.

The cases remain under investigation, according to Peterson, and are being handled by Ladner and Seay in addition to assistance from Matt Karl, Bay investigator, and Gretna Police.

Ambulance crash injures Bay woman

By BRENT MACEY

Alice Dupaquier, 61, of Louisville Garden Apartments in Bay St. Louis, was listed in satisfactory condition at West Jefferson General Hospital in New Orleans following an accident involving a stolen ambulance Sunday evening.

Hospital spokesman said Dupaquier suffered a broken hip in the accident.

Two others in the car with Dupaquier were treated for minor cuts and released Sunday night.

Identities of those two victims were unavailable from either the hospital or Louisiana State Police.

LSP Trooper David Wilson said the other two occupants in the car were relatives of Dupaquier, believed to be her son and daughter-in-law. He did not know their names.

He stated the accident occurred at approximately 9:30 p.m. Sunday on US-90 and Jamie Boulevard in Avondale, on the west bank of the Mississippi River near New Orleans. Wilson stated a stolen ambulance crashed into the rear end of the Dupaquier automobile at a 'high rate of speed' when their car was stopped at a red light on US-90.

"The car was spun around. The ambulance went up onto the medium strip, tried to keep going, bounced back onto the highway and conked out approximately 169 feet further down US-90," he said.

"The driver ran from the ambulance into a swamp on the left hand side of the road," Wilson explained.

He said the Jefferson Parish Sheriff's Department is looking for the man whom witnesses described as a young white male, about six-feet, one-inch tall, with dark stringy, curly hair, and wearing dark clothes.

Wilson said the ambulance was stolen only moments before from the West Jefferson Hospital located about four miles away.

"The driver had just figured out how to turn on the red ambulance lights before the accident," Wilson said.

He stated the Dupaquier car was 'totaled.'

Regional wastewater plan adopted by Bay Council

By BRENT MACEY

The Bay St. Louis City Council voted Monday night to adopt a resolution to join the Mississippi Gulf Coast Regional Wastewater Authority program effective January 22.

The resolution states Bay St. Louis 'declares its intention' to enter into a contract with the Wastewater Authority, allowing the authority to 'acquire, lease, improve, intend, operate and or maintain the treatment facilities of the city and acquire and construct treatment facilities to be owned by the authority for the furnishing of services to the city.'

The contract, if signed by the city in January, will be effective for 99 years. Joseph Benvenuti, council president; Councilmen James Thrifley and Fred Wagner voted yes to the resolution.

Councilmen Harry Farve and Wilmer Seymour were opposed.

A meeting to sign the contract is slated for 5 p.m. Jan. 22 at the city hall if there is no protest before that time by citizens of Bay St. Louis.

A vote by citizens on the agreement to enter the contract will be mandatory only if either 10 percent or 1,500 qualified electors of the city, whichever is greater, file a protest with the city clerk on or before that date and hour.

Approximately 15 minutes of discussion preceded the vote.

Farve asked why there had been no input from the Waveland community.

Sheriff to continue effort for new jail

By ELLIS CUEVAS

In a review of his first year in office, Hancock County Sheriff Ronald A. (Ronnie) Peterson said, "I am real satisfied with the way the sheriff's department has operated during 1980."

"I attribute our success to the people who work for me because they are all dedicated and well qualified," he added.

In looking into the future, Peterson emphasized the need for a new jail in Hancock County.

Peterson commented, "A step in that direction was taken in 1980 by our Board of Supervisors with assistance from the National Institute of Corrections."

"Elected officials, myself and staff members attended a two day seminar in July on the jail needs of Hancock, and another meeting is scheduled by the Corrections Institute in Colorado in February," Peterson added.

Peterson stated, "There is no question about the need of a new jail. I hope it becomes a reality in 1981."

Cooperation of all elected officials has played an important part in the sheriff's success.

Peterson said, "I am very appreciative of the cooperation of the Hancock County Board of Supervisors. The support they have given me in regard to budget and equipment has made it possible to provide the protection our citizens need."

"At this time I would also like to express a special thanks to Bay St. Louis Police Chief Douglas Williams and Waveland Chief of Police Donald Dorn for their fine cooperation in working together for better law enforcement in all of Hancock County," Peterson allowed.

Peterson feels his staff has done a fine job and noted, "The job done by our two investigators, Alvin Ladner and Delbert Seay has been outstanding. These two men have a very good working relationship with the sheriff's staff in addition to the Mississippi Highway Patrol, Bay St. Louis and Waveland investigators."

One of Peterson's campaign promises was to provide a patrol car in the rural parts of Hancock, and after having this service for one year, he commented, "I feel like keeping a patrol car in the rural areas has helped tremendously in curbing crime in those areas of the county."

"You know, the public has been a big help with their sentiment in regards to law enforcement in Hancock. I realize that at times we are only as good as the public wants us to be. Their help by reporting incidents has really helped in making our job easier," Peterson commented.

The sheriff finished in saying, "We have accomplished a lot of goals I set in 1980, but we still realize we have further improvements which can be made."

"We plan to continue the same law enforcement programs in 1981 and make changes wherever possible to provide better law enforcement. I realize we are a growing community, and we have to keep pace with the growth in law enforcement," Peterson allowed.

varies from location to location not only due to the moon and sun, but wind, bottom topography, fresh water flow, streams and rivers also effect this," the administrator explained.

"Cole is establishing intermediate points and will be staking mean high water points," he added.

The administrator reported private surveyors would be able to look at a chart and establish the location of BMR's benchmarks to determine state and private boundaries.

"The intent of the Gulf Coast study is not to produce a written report, but we will ultimately have a file of these benchmarks to provide tide information for specific locations," he said.

"The benchmarks will establish datums for a plain of reference for mean high and low tide, and sea level," the administrator explained.

Lewis reported a complete tidal cycle is some 18.6 years, so benchmarks coastwide will have to be revised after some 19 years.

"We monitor tides from three months to a year in this study and then we are able to formulate an average," he noted.

Lewis reported Mississippi is the fifth state nationwide to establish the tide stations. Texas, New Jersey, South Carolina and California have established such reference points.

The administrator said there has been a slight rise in sea level over the years due to the Earth's melting polar caps and coastal subsidence.

He explained coastal subsidence is land sinking due to reduction of underground water by an increasing number of water wells.

Mack Cameron, special assistant to the State Attorney General, said in Jackson Tuesday regarding the local lawsuit, "The state has title to submerged lands and has leased property to oil companies."

"The question is how you divide the property up," Cameron stated.

"Cinque Bambini" says the state doesn't own certain submerged lands," he added.

"We thought we were going to court in March, but no definite trial date has been set," Cameron reported.

"The basic thrust of this case is who has ownership. This will determine the dividing of revenues from oil and gas production on this property," he explained.

Ernest Taylor of Walkins, Pyle, Ludlum and Stennis law firm in Jackson is representing Cinque Bambini in the civil action suit.

Officials from that community did not appear at the rescheduled Monday meeting or the previous meeting the Monday before.

Wagner said although the Waveland authorities had been asked to attend both meetings, they had failed to attend either one.

He said, "They have not shown us any figures or information to lead us to believe there is any cheaper or more

Taylor declined to comment Tuesday about any aspects of the suit to avoid jeopardizing the cases of the attorneys representing the other plaintiffs.

Attorneys representing others in the dispute are Otis Johnson Jr. of Heidelberg, Woodliff and Franks in Jackson; William C.W. Haynes of Houston, Tex.; Walter James Phillips of Gex, Gex and Phillips of Bay St. Louis; and L. Arnold Pyle and Warren V. Ludlum Jr. of Walkins, Pyle, Ludlum and Stennis.

Lewis explained, "The private landowners performed a survey and BMR could not agree with it."

"The survey was done by a reputable individual, but the datums he used were not the same as ours. He used an adjustment to the advantage of the upland owner," the administrator explained.

Historical background documents on the Cinque Bambini property reveal that prior to 1803 Hancock County was the Spanish territory of West Florida. Coastal Mississippi was conveyed to the U.S. on April 3, 1803 and established as a colony of Louisiana.

An Act of Congress on May 14, 1812 established this land as part of the Territory of Mississippi.

Noel and John L. Jourdan, and Pierre Carco settled and claimed much of the land along what is now the Jourdan River on April 15, 1813.

Congress issued patents for the claims to the three men on May 28, 1830.

Dr. Carroll W. Allen bought much of what is now Cinque Bambini property from the Jourdan brothers' heirs.

Carco's land was sold for taxes. Allen died on April 14, 1934 and willed the land to Rose Allen Ellis, Henry Martin Allen, Lydia Carroll Hamilton Allen, Carroll W. Allen and Lydia Fayers Freeman Allen.

Rose Ellis and Henry Allen later conveyed the property to the late doctor's children.

Those heirs sold the land and one-half mineral rights to James L. Crump on Sept. 28, 1946.

Camp built on Jourdan River what is known today as Holly Bluff gardens.

Before that time several relatively small parcels were bought and sold. Through these transactions, several local family names periodically appear, including McLeod, Williams, Necaise, Gex, Ladner, Haas and Seal.

Crump sold a portion of J.J. Jourdan Claim 23 to Harry B. Kelleher on July 25, 1947.

Crump died on April 25, 1963 and willed the land to his heirs who formed the partnership.

effective way to solve the problem we have to solve."

Benvenuti said, "We have to do something. The government is saying do it or get out. We have to make a decision. We batted this around for two years."

He stated, "We can only make a decision on whether we have the figures to operate with. I do not think we can do it any cheaper."

"Waveland and Gulfport have an ace in the hole," he added.

"They can bargain and possibly go cheaper with a better price with plants, but we have not got a wastewater treatment plant and we have no bargaining power whatsoever," Benvenuti continued.

Triffley said joining the regional authority now would insure Bay St. Louis getting in on a 'postage stamp rate,' a rate equal to the amount of more populated areas in other counties.

He said that waiting till later would increase the price of joining.

Mississippi Market News

Most Mississippi livestock auctions were closed the last two weeks of the year, so this is the last report of 1980.

Trading was very erratic in all phases of livestock and meat marketing with ever increasing interest rates forcing buyers to operate on an 'as needed' basis.

An early week dull beef trade encouraged feedlot operators to lock their gates to help clear out the pipelines.

A general recovery at midweek moved prices into higher levels and late trading was under a fairly good demand. Light weight feeder calves to go on rye grass pastures were also showing an increased demand late.

At the Mississippi Livestock auctions for the week ended Dec. 18, around 9,000 cattle were sold, down 4,000 from the previous week and up 1,700 from a year ago.

Slaughter cows fully steady, with Utility 1-340-47, Cutter 1-2 35-42. Feeder steers were 1-3 higher, heifers were steady to 2 higher. Medium and Large Frame No. 1 200-300 pound steers 82-89, few 95, 300-400 pounds 75-80, few 86, 400-500 pounds 70-75, few 79, 500-600 pounds 65-70, few 75.

Medium and Large Frame No. 1 heifers 200-300 pounds 62-69, few 72-50, 300-400 pounds 60-65, few 68, 400-500 pounds 58-64, 500-600 pounds 56-61.

The Texas Oklahoma Panhandle area moved, 51,100 cattle, up 3,100 from the previous week and down 2,400 from a year ago. Slaughter steers and heifers fully steady, late sales Good to mostly Choice 2-3 1025-1250 pound steers 67-67.50, heifers 67.5-1000 pounds 64.50-65.25.

The St. Louis hog market had 31,700 head, down 300 from the previous week and up 700 from a year ago. Butcher hogs were .50-1 higher for the week, late sales U.S. 1-2 200-230 pounds 45.50-46, 230-250 pounds 45-45.50. Sows were .50-2.50 higher, U.S. 1-3, 300-500 pounds 38-38.50, weights over 500 pounds 40.50-52. Boars over 250 pounds 35.35-25.

SHRUNKEN HEAD

'Once Upon a Classic' presents a one-hour special for family viewing at 1 p.m., Saturday, Jan. 3, on the Mississippi Educational Television Network.

'The Boy with Two Heads' recounts the adventures of young Chris Page who, after thwarting an attempted burglary at an antique shop, receives the shrunken head of a witch doctor, an old native drum and some bamboo pipes as his reward.

The excitement begins when Chris and his sister Jill play the pipes and the shrunken head comes to life to explain that he is Chico the Rain-maker from South America.

'Once Upon a Classic' is closed-captioned for the hearing-impaired.

EDITORIAL

Our wishes for Hancock County in 1981

We feel today, the start of a New Year, is a good time for us to consider some priority needs in Hancock County. Our order of listing is not necessarily in the order of importance.

WASTEWATER AUTHORITY

The selection by the officials of Hancock County, Bay St. Louis and Waveland of the correct wastewater authority. There are two ways to go for our officials, local or regional. Of course, some political bodies could go in different directions. Over the months we have asked a lot of questions, trying to figure what we feel would be the best way for Hancock, Waveland and Bay St. Louis to solve their wastewater problems. There are good arguments for the local as well as the regional authority.

One thing we do feel though, and that is it should be to all of our benefit if all three governmental agencies go in the same direction.

BAY ST. LOUIS SCHOOL SYSTEM

The Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School System is in need of a building program.

More classrooms are especially needed at North Bay Elementary. Our third graders should be in school with children their own ages.

Bay Senior High may be the best place for the third graders this school year, but should not be next year.

We are sure other building improvements are needed at other educational facilities of the Bay School System.

HANCOCK SCHOOL SYSTEM

The Hancock County School System apparently needs more classrooms at all four campuses.

In all probability, more lineage has been written about the Hancock School System than any other in the State of Mississippi during the past eight months.

The publicity has been bad, a lot of things have to be cleared up in regards to the repairs of Gulfview's campus after the May tornado.

We understand from recent meetings of the county school board that they are trying to construct 22 new classrooms at the various campuses.

Four classrooms are under construction at the Hancock North Central Elementary campus and should be ready for occupancy soon.

The construction of the classrooms and possibly a new school are much needed.

We always wondered why the bond issues for county school expansions have failed. It could very well be a lack of confidence by the voters in the elected officials.

We hope some positive actions will be taken in 1981 towards improving the county school system.

NEW COUNTY JAIL

It would be hard to count the number of Grand Juries which have recommended construction of a new jail in Hancock County.

In 1980, we did see strides by our supervisors, Bay St. Louis and Waveland political leaders in starting to take a real serious look at our jail problem.

The sheriff's office and both Bay St. Louis and Waveland police have been aware for many years of the need for a new jail. We hope a new jail will become a reality for Hancock in 1981.

BEACH ROAD REPAIRS

Beach Boulevard in Hancock County has been severely damaged by several storms. Our local officials have been promised monies for repairs only to be turned down by officials of several federal programs.

It would be hard to estimate the millions of dollars in income taxes paid by the residents of Hancock County each year.

At one time, the Beach Boulevard was under control of the State Highway Department, but they now do not want any part of it for reasons we are unable to understand.

The late Tex Ritter made the boll weevil the most popular bug in the country looking for a home.

Like that boll weevil is looking for a home, so does Beach Boulevard in Hancock County look for a godfather.

We know our officials have made several trips to Atlanta and Washington hoping to seek funds for the Beach Road restoration and they are still trying to get help.

As Beach Boulevard deteriorates, the suggestion we made several months ago about a mule train for transportation seems more and more a reality.

We hope some agency will be a godfather for Beach Boulevard.

ANIMAL SHELTER

Monies have been allocated by the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland for a county animal shelter.

We know the first chosen location for this facility had to be abandoned because of opposition.

We hope a new site will be selected that is pleasing to all in the near future.

An animal shelter is something Hancock County really needs.

HANCOCK GENERAL HOSPITAL

The majority of the structure of Hancock General Hospital is 20 years old.

In recent months many changes have been made at HGH, changes showing in considerable improvements in health care for the residents of our county.

The opening of the intensive care unit in recent weeks is a major step in health care improvement.

We now have more doctors on the active staff at HGH than ever in its history. More specialist have arrived.

A comprehensive plan should start immediately for the construction of a new hospital in Hancock.

As most of us know, it is hard to reach the current hospital on an exceptionally high tide.

There has been a lot of talk about the raising of Dunbar on the low spot between HGH and the highway, but, all it has been is talk.

INDUSTRY IN HANCOCK

Hancock officials need to continue their efforts in seeking new industry.

A good job has been done in recent years and we hope it continues.

Our employment reached a low ebb in November, 1980. More jobs are a must for Hancock's continued growth.

TOURISM

We need to continue to push for tourism in Hancock.

We have so much to offer, such as, Buccaneer State Park, McLeod Park and the Wave Pool just to mention a few.

The sorry condition of Beach Boulevard is a hindrance to tourism.

I-10 HOSPITALITY STATION

Record numbers are visiting the I-10 rest area in Hancock County. There is a very fine staff of ladies doing an outstanding job welcoming visitors to our area.

An entrance to that facility off I-10 instead of Hwy. 607 could possibly mean more stops at the center by travelers.

We have the best rest facility in Mississippi, why not try for it's fullest potential.

ROADS AND HIGHWAYS

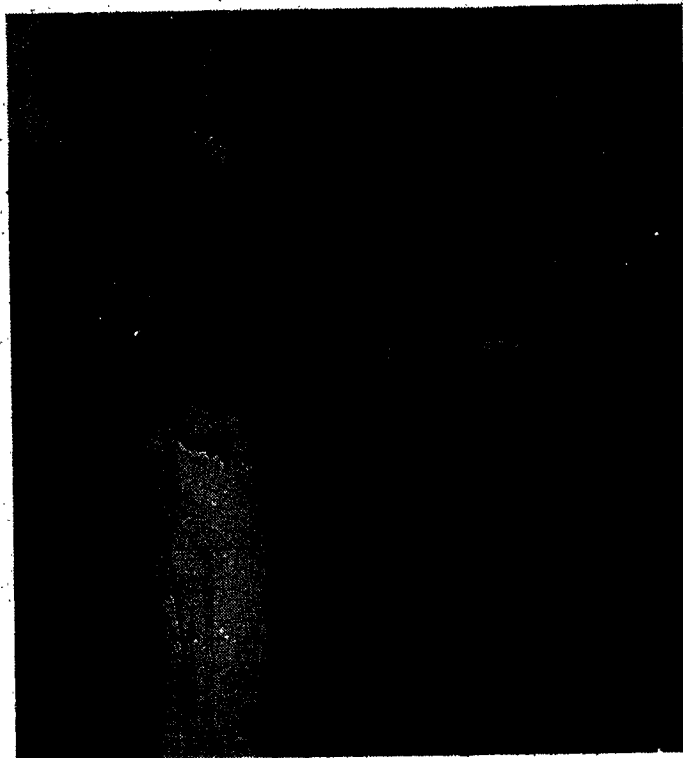

Number of roads and highways have been resurfaced in recent years.

We hope there will be a continued emphasis in this area, for there are still a lot of horrible roads.

SPLENDID WORKING TOGETHER

We really like the cooperation and working together of our political leaders.

It is our hope that this good leadership will continue in 1981. Happy New Year to all!

LEARNING THE FACTS — Children at North Bay Elementary School in Bay St. Louis watch a television production by the Bay St. Louis Police Department and the Hancock County Youth Court depicting what legal action is taken against a minor caught shoplifting. LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

County resident contends new road unnecessary

Editor
The Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis
Attention: Brent Macey

Gentlemen:

Your report of the December 22 meeting of the Hancock County Board of Supervisors regarding the proposed State-aid "Fire Tower" Road is accurately reported (except for the complainant's name).

However, I did not know until I read your report that my plan for reviewing this ill-conceived expenditure of tax payers' monies had progressed to the point of no return, simply because our supervisors accepted the word of an assistant county engineer.

The assistant engineer stated that $300,000 had already been expended on three bridges and one box culvert, all of which were replacing those previously condemned or restricted ones.

I pointed out that nothing was lost since those facilities were long overdue for replacement.

He did not report that similar bridge or culvert would be required in the corner of my property, as it is the contention of the engineer that a curve was necessary rather than to follow the present stabilized road bed.

The expropriation of property for additional right-of-way does not set well with the property owners along the seven mile route.

Even a cursory inspection of the red set-back markers from Hwy. 603 to E. Ladner Road would suffice to show how much property would be required, and how much fencing would need to be rebuilt.

Other undesirable aspects of the project embrace establishing a new right-of-way; much delay and inconvenience; and increased on-going maintenance, etc.

Sure we want to get out of the mud, but it is not necessary to build a meandering highway through our usable properties when a hard, surfaced county road will suffice at much less cost.

Very truly yours,
Herbert F. de Buys

Sir:
Welcome Wagon, again we thank you!

On Thursday, Dec. 11, Bay Waveland Humane Society was presented with a check at a luncheon at a local restaurant.

These people realize the work and money involved in helping those who have animals that need spaying and neutering, etc.

Our community is fortunate to have them with us.

NEWS FROM THE GOVERNOR'S OFFICE

Governor William Winter last week named his executive assistant, Bill Cole, to serve as state treasurer for the unexpired term of John Dale. Dale died December 13.

Cole, an attorney, served as special assistant attorney general and executive assistant to former Attorney General A.F. Summer. He directed the Winter Administration's transition effort and since January has served as executive assistant and legal counsel to the governor.

Cole also serves as secretary of the Governor's Policy Council and Secretary of the Judicial Nominating Committee. He is a member of the Staff Advisory Council of the Southern Governors' Association and the Staff Advisory Council to the National Governors' Association Committee on Community and Economic Development.

The 32-year-old Jackson native, who was legislative assistant to former Congressman Charles Griffin, studied at Hinds Junior College and graduated from the University of Mississippi with a Bachelor of Public Administration. He received his doctorate in law from the University of Mississippi Law School in 1974.

Winter said he selected Cole for his "professionalism, proven ability and vast knowledge of the complexities of state government."

Commenting on his appointment, Cole said, "John Dale was well-respected as a public servant. He administered the office of state treasurer with dedication and integrity. It is certainly my hope and desire that I can administer the office in the same tradition."

Cole pledged to be an active state treasurer saying, "I intend to represent the best interests of the people of Mississippi in handling the fiscal responsibilities of this office." As state treasurer, Cole will serve on the State Bond Commission, State Depository Commission, Public Employees Retirement Board and the State License Tag Commission.

MINOR DAMAGE—Bay St. Louis, Waveland and East Hancock firemen said the fact Marge and Tom Hitchcock, left, of Bay St. Louis were at the home of their friends Joe and Vivian Murrow on Washington Road Saturday watching the Sun Bowl on television while the Murrows were visiting relatives in Ohio. The Hitchcocks lost the picture on the TV set about the same time they smelled smoke and neighbors, right, reported smoke coming from the attic of the house. Firemen said if no one had been in the house, smoldering insulation would have destroyed the structure in a few hours. Fire Chiefs Andrew Lizana and Kenneth Fayard of Bay St. Louis and Waveland, respectively, said cause of the fire was faulty installation of an attic heating unit. The Hitchcocks were high in their praise of firemen's work at the scene to keep damage to a minimum. (Staff photo by Edgar Perez)

WATCH THOSE STATISTICS
You see the headlines in the newspaper quite often... "Home prices up 6 percent..." "Home prices up 10 percent..." The situation looks discouraging for potential home buyers. But before you shake your head and say you can't afford those prices, dig a little deeper and see what's behind those statistics.

The prices that are quoted in the papers are usually MEDIAN prices. The median price is the middle price. Remember this when you read the real estate news. If the headline says "Median Price of Homes in West Northville Reaches $52,500" it simply means that half the homes sold went for more than that figure, and half went for less. Bear in mind that the median price figure only gives a rough idea of home prices. The only real way to know what's available and at what price is to find out. Remember that statistics view the whole picture, surveying a group of homes and arriving at a median figure. YOU are only interested in one home! There might be one out there just for you at the price you want to pay. Come in and talk to us about it. You might be able to laugh at those statistics as you move into your own home!

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at PRESSMAN REALTY, 1332 Hwy. 90 W., Waveland. Phone 467-2224. We're here to help!

New Year Replaces Old

A brand new year was born last night
As the old one quietly slipped away.
May we have strength to do good and right,
And pray for God's guidance each day.

Time passes so swiftly we realize,
Nor does it wait for any man;
From each day we must draw its prize,
And seek to help others whenever we can.

Set aside a part of each new day.
For quiet thoughts and meditation;
Read God's Word a while and pray,
And ask God's blessings upon our Nation!

YOU AND YOUR PET

One of the most important sources of information for a pet owner is a veterinarian. These professionals can give advice on a wide range of pet health topics, including diet, exercise, and medical treatment.

To help you benefit from talks with your veterinarian, I'll review some of the more common terms heard in a veterinary office.

For example, you may talk to your veterinarian about an answer to the problem of the unwanted puppies or kittens your pet produces twice a year.

The veterinarian can suggest spaying (surgically removing the pet's ovaries and uterus), or the use of special contraceptive tablets, to prevent the female's future pregnancies.

A male dog could be neutered, that is, have his testicles surgically removed.

Checking your pet's vaccination record, your veterinarian may note that the dog needs revaccination to maintain its immunity (ability to resist certain disease-causing viruses and bacteria).

A newborn kitten or puppy will often receive temporary disease protection by absorbing the antibodies (special protective molecules) present in the colostrum (first milk) of the vaccinated mother.

After the first 12 weeks of life, a puppy may be successfully vaccinated for long-lasting immunity against canine distemper, hepatitis, leptospirosis and rabies.

Kittens may be vaccinated against feline distemper, rabies and respiratory diseases.

Certain terms are useful for the pet owner whose animal must undergo surgery.

A pet is anesthetized (rendered unconscious) so that an operation will not be painful.

An incision (cut) through the skin and muscle exposes the proper organs for the veterinarian. Tissue that is malignant (cancerous) may be removed, if necessary.

Occasionally, surgery is not enough to repair extensive tissue damage, and the veterinarian must euthanize (humanely destroy) a suffering animal.

There is a wide range of technical terms that identify the various conditions affecting dogs and cats. Here are a few of them:

—FUS (feline urinary syndrome) is a condition where fine, sand-like particles block a tomcat's urinary tract and prevent urination.

Sometimes the problem can be corrected by a change in diet; other times, surgery is required.

—Estrus, or heat, is the period when female pets are bred and conceive their young. Cats often show strange behavior while in heat.

—Canine distemper is a serious respiratory infection that causes fever, running of the nose and eyes, and possibly death in puppies and older dogs.

The disease is effectively prevented by vaccination. Feline distemper is a similar but separate respiratory infection of cats.

—Heartworms are parasites that live in the heart and major blood vessels of dogs.

Heartworms are effectively controlled with the use of certain anthelmintic (wormer) medications.

Obviously, your veterinarian won't use all these terms in a single office visit. But you might hear one or two. Perhaps this glossary can improve communication between you and your pet's veterinarian.

New Year's Resolutions

I WILL...

Take time to work - it is the price of success.
Take time to think - it is the source of power.
Take time to play - it is the secret of youth.
Take time to read - it is the foundation of wisdom.
Take time to be friendly - it is the road to joy.
Take time to love - it is the privilege of the gods.
Take time to laugh - it is a great healer.

Snow ski trip
being organized

Snow skiers or just snow fanciers can again enjoy a Colorado ski trip through the University of Southern Mississippi's seventh annual winter ski program.

USM's "Ski the Summit" trip is open to anyone wanting to ski the four famous summit areas of A-Basin, Breckenridge, Copper Mountain and Keystone.

Dr. Joe Cracraft and Barbara Ross from USM at Hattiesburg will direct the March 7-14 Summit tour, leaving on a direct flight from Hattiesburg to Denver.

"Both Cracraft and Ross have been directing the yearly excursion for families, individuals and students since the non-profit program was formed for Mississippi skiers to enjoy Colorado easily and economically," a university spokesman explained.

The tour provides four, half-day lessons, six days of equipment rental, complete travel, accommodations including six days and seven nights at the new Beaver Run resort, in Breckenridge, and chartered air transportation.

Accommodations may be arranged this month by calling Dr. Cracraft at 266-7267 or Barbara Ross at 266-4251.

Alcoholism patients in the physical therapy unit of the Gulfport Veterans Administration Hospital built a dollhouse to raise funds for the center, as well as toy boxes, wooden puzzles, Christmas ornaments and toys for the children. AFTERNOON MOVIES

It's time for old-fashioned afternoons at the movies when Mississippi ETV begins airing "Matinee at the Bijou" on Saturday, December 27. At 4:30 every Saturday afternoon, the fun includes cliff-hanging serial chapters, vintage cartoons, selected short subjects and newsreels, previews of coming attractions and feature-length movies. The first matinee features "Lost City" starring William Boyd and George Hayes. The cartoon is "Pagan Moon," a 1931 black and white Merrie Melodies production. The serial is "Junior G-Men" Chapter one, and a newsreel short subject also is scheduled.

Consumer specialist offers oven use tips

MONEY TALK

By NORINE BARNES
We're all interested in saving money on our utility bills; and by learning to plan ahead toward more efficient use of the kitchen range, we can save not only money, but energy as well.

Many of these good practices will just be reminders for you, but if all of us could get them to the point of being second nature - the savings of gas and electricity would be tremendous.

Before turning on the oven be sure to take time to position the rack so it divides the oven in half. If you're going to be using two racks, then divide the oven into thirds. This simple little practice will insure proper oven ventilation and prevent prolonged cooking times.

Always try to use the recommended baking utensils in the oven. The size and shape of baking pans control not only the volume but the texture of foods.

Fewer spillovers, and therefore fewer oven cleanings, will occur when the right size pan is used. Remember also, when using glass or porcelain enamel baking utensils, the oven temperature can be lowered 25 degrees.

In the same vein, with porcelain enamel roaster pans where meats will be cooked for long periods, the temperature may be lowered by as much as 50 degrees.

Your own trial and error can determine the best oven settings for you.

When the oven is used to capacity, it utilizes energy more efficiently than cooking on top of the range. So you save energy by doubling or tripling oven recipes.

You can always freeze the surplus; but here again, it's wiser energy utilization to do your freezing after eight at night when the power is low.

If you have a self-cleaning oven, plan to use this marvelous feature either (1) in the "off-peak" period (8 p.m. to 8 a.m.) or (2) immediately after you have used the oven so you can capitalize on the retained heat.

If you are the oven cleaner, plan to do the cleaning after you've had occasion to use the oven - again to capitalize on the retained heat.

Since most commercial cleaners work best in a warm oven, instead of "heating up" to apply them, try "cooling down" to the right application temperature (which, incidentally shouldn't be more than 200 degrees).

The pennies saved will add up over the years.

Save money while you cook - utilize your range to conserve gas and electricity.

In line with long-established traditions, New Year's Day holds a wealth of superstitions and stories as to foods and eating customs...such as the Southern tradition of eating blackeye peas on New Year's Day so that good luck, with peace and plenty will be yours in good measure in the coming year...and cabbage so that you'll have a bit of wealth as well.

If you haven't already started your a-cooking, all is not lost. You can hasten out for a can of blackeye peas and "jazz" them up a bit with your own seasonings, and as for the cabbage, you can quickly chop up some raw cabbage for slaw to appease the traditions or superstitions or such.

Incidentally, if you're among those who don't like blackeye peas, serve them cold, marinated in a robust garlicky olive oil and vinegar dressing - you just might change your mind. They're quite tasty this way, as a salad or as an addition to the appetizer of buffet spread.

Speaking of that, the New Year's Day buffet table of years ago was usually lavish, with ham and turkey as main adornments, along with all sorts of delicacies.

But in our world of today, New Year's and football are synonymous (though I often have other adjectives for the latter in the later hours) and the spread is usually more informal.

For my part, I set the black eye peas, rice and cabbage out, along with sliced ham and breads for all-comers, and then after so many touch-downs and so many cheers and such, I usually flee to the backyard to commune with the birds and catch up on my digging in the garden.

But, sooner or later, I have to rejoin the glassy-eyed group 'round the television set, and offer some sort of refresher.

Onion soup is the answer. Sometimes I've made it ahead of time, sometimes I whisk it together suddenly, but it seems to hit the spot. (It's also a good restorative in case there are any slight hangovers remaining from New Year's Eve.) Here's

4 large onions, sliced thin.
2 tablespoons butter or drippings
2 cups beef broth or 2 cans consommé
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Parmesan or Gruyere cheese, grated
French bread or rolls or croutons

Heat the butter in large pot, and add the onions (best if sliced lengthwise instead of in rings, makes 'em easier to eat without dripping) and saute until translucent but not brown, stirring with a wooden spoon to prevent browning or burning. Cook over low heat till very light brown, add the broth or consommé, diluting with water till consistency you want, add the Worcestershire, cover and simmer about twenty minutes or so.

A few splashes of white wine or vermouth add a nice touch at this point. Place a toasted round of French bread or rolls in the bottom of each soup bowl, pour the soup over, and blanket well with the cheese.

If you're feeling extra kind to the TV-topers, run the bowls (if oven proof) under the broiler a minute or so.

You can also serve this in mugs and pass them around so that the eyes can stay glued to the screen. Meanwhile, I'm off outside to transplant those nandina cuttings. (Copyright, 1980, Katharine D.M. Caire)

BORN AGAIN—Carpenter ants, vandals and rot were having a field day at this historic Massachusetts home, designed by noted Victorian architect H.H. Richardson. Now the house will be given a new life as the star of "This Old House" on the Mississippi Educational Television Network. Renovation on this house can be seen at 2 p.m., Saturdays, beginning Jan. 3, on Mississippi ETV.

We are now cleaning and servicing all makes and models, central & window unit air conditioners.

FRUIT TREES

Place orders for fruit and nut trees soon. The nurseries will start shipping these trees soon. Several nurseries have stopped taking orders this season, so get your order in as soon as possible.

When your trees are delivered, keep the roots moist until you plant them. Carefully select planting sites to avoid power lines or sewerage lines.

SOIL TESTING
Start the new garden season off right this year by taking a soil test. You should test your garden soil to determine lime and fertilizer needs. This will give you better vegetable production in 1981. It doesn't take any longer to plant and cultivate a row that will yield 400 pounds. Soil testing can provide the clue as to why your garden isn't producing maximum yields. Contact your County Extension Office for soil testing boxes and instructions.

PORK PRODUCERS
You pork producers will want to mark your calendars on January 8-9, 1981 for the Mississippi Pork Producers Conference at the Metro Ramada Inn in Jackson. The program will include talks on disease prevention, production economics and outlook, nutrition management and other topics important to swine producers.

Registration for the conference will start at 12:30 p.m., January 8, 1981. Plan now to attend this important

Colleges, universities tell spring schedules

Hancock Vo-Tech Center

The Pearl River Junior College Hancock County Vocational-Technical Center, adjacent to Stennis International Airport, will offer several evening vocational and academic courses during the 1981 spring semester.

Business and office vocational courses will include Bookkeeping I, Business English, Office Machines, Shorthand I, Typing I and Typing II.

Trade and industrial vocational courses will include Air Conditioning and Refrigeration, Auto Mechanics, Machine Shop, Carpentry-Cabinetmaking, Electricity, and Welding.

Academic college courses will include English 1113, General Math 1213, Physical Science 2213 and World History 1113. Academic courses carry full accreditation and are VA approved.

Cost per course varies from $40.00 to $135.00 depending on course selection. Classes will begin on January 12 and continue for 17 weeks with students meeting one or two nights per week depending on course selection.

Students may register anytime from Jan. 5, through Jan. 9, from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m. or Jan. 8, from 4 p.m. until 8 p.m.

In the event 10 or more students do not register, the scheduled course will be cancelled.

For further information, contact the center at 467-3568.

Belhaven

Belhaven College's schedule of classes for second semester 1980-81 was announced recently.

Dr. S. Dewey Buckley, vice president for Academic Affairs at the college said students are to report for registration at the west rear entrance of Irby Hall Wednesday, Jan. 14.

Registration begins at the Jackson college with students whose first letter of their last name begin with T-Z at 8:30 a.m., A-C at 9:30 a.m., D-G at 9:30-10 a.m., H-L at 10:30 a.m., M-Q at 10:30-11 a.m., and R-S at 11-11:30 a.m.

The last day to enter any course is January 29.

A late registration fee of $5 will be assessed from students who register after Jan. 14.

Classes begin Thursday, January 15 and dormitories open Jan. 11 at 2 p.m.

Delta State

Delta State University students will complete registration for the 1981 spring semester on Monday and Tuesday, Jan. 5-6 in The Union, James Donald Cooper, DSU registrar, said recently.

Cooper noted, "Students who have not pre-registered will register Jan. 5 with seniors and graduates, 9 a.m. to 12 noon; juniors, 1-4 p.m.; and students registering for night classes only, 5:30-7 p.m."

Cooper said students who pre-registered Dec. 1-5, will complete registration according to the following schedule: seniors and graduate students 8 a.m. to 12 noon on Jan. 5; and juniors, 1-4:30 p.m. on Jan. 5.

Pre-registered sophomores will register from 8 a.m. to 12 noon Jan. 6, with non-pre-registered sophomores registering from 9 a.m. to 12 noon. Pre-registered freshmen will complete registration from 1-5 p.m., Jan. 6, while non-pre-registered freshmen are scheduled for 1-3 p.m.

"Students who have incomplete admissions files will register from 3-4 p.m. on Jan. 6," the registrar stated.

Entering freshmen who have not taken the American College Test (ACT) should report to Room 301 of The Union at 8 a.m., Monday, Jan. 5.

All entering freshmen who have not taken the Nelson-Denny Reading Test must do so at 2 p.m., Monday, Jan. 5 in Room 301 of The Union.

Night classes will begin at 7 p.m., Jan. 5 and day classes will start at 8 a.m., Wednesday, Jan. 7.

Dormitories will open at 2 p.m., Sunday, Jan. 4, Wayne Blansett, Director of Student Activities reported recently.

Delta State will participate in an 'Over 21' program designed for adults over that age who cannot meet the regular admissions requirements of the university.

"A student who has been graduated from high school for at least three years and who is over 21 may enroll in this program as a non-degree student," said Dr. Daisy Howell, dean of the Division of Continuing Education at Delta State.

"In addition, a student over 21 who has successfully completed the General Education Development Test (GED) is eligible for this program," she added.

"On completion of 12 semester hours with a grade point average of 2.0, the student may apply for full admission to Delta State if he meets the requirements of the admissions office concerning transfer students," Howell stated.

Regular registration for the 'Over 21' students will be on the third floor of The Union from 2-4 p.m., Tuesday, Jan. 6. Fees for each three hour course are $94. Financial aid is not available for the 'Over 21' program.

Students may apply for admission to the program by contacting Howell, Dean of Continuing Education, Box C-1, Delta State University, Cleveland, Miss. 38706.

NEW DIRECTOR OF EDUCATION — Savannah Tynes of Biloxi has been named director of education for the Mississippi Authority for Educational Television. She will begin her duties at ETV on January 5.

BLUES, HAPPY OR SAD — Fourteen blues musicians came back to where it all began in the Mississippi Delta for a whole day of blues. Highlights of their trip back home can be seen on 'Mississippi Delta Blues' at 5 p.m. Sunday on Mississippi ETV, UHF Channel 19 on the Coast and Hancock Cable Channel 13. Five of the artists featured are, clockwise from upper left, Eugene Powell, Lefty Diz Williams, Hammie Nixon, Robert Lockwood Jr. and Johnny Shines.

Jackson State

Jackson State University will have its spring semester registration on campus Jan. 12-13 beginning at 9 a.m.

Graduate and undergraduate evening class enrollment is scheduled both days from 6:30 to 8 p.m.

Orientation for new and transfer students is scheduled at 8 a.m. Jan. 8-9 in the Jacob L. Reddix Campus Union.

Dormitories for students participating in orientation will open at 7:30 a.m. on Jan. 8 and at 8 a.m. on Jan. 11 for returning students.

Classes will begin Jan. 14. A university spokesman said this week, "Students who did not pre-register for the spring term must secure a registration, identification card and data form from Dansby Hall Auditorium at a designated time listed in an alphabetical registration schedule."

The registration schedule is:

Monday, Jan. 12 - I at 9 a.m.; M-N at 10 a.m.; O-P-Q at 11:30 a.m.; R at 1 p.m.; S at 2:30 p.m.; T-U-V at 3:13 p.m.; W-X-Y-Z at 4 p.m.

Tuesday, Jan. 13 - A at 9 a.m.; B at 10 a.m.; C at 11 a.m.; D-E at 12 noon; F-G at 1:30 p.m.; H-I at 2:30 p.m.; J at 3:15 p.m.; K at 4 p.m.

Late registration will be daily from Jan. 14-22 at the designated time:

A at 8:30 a.m.; B at 9 a.m.; C-D at 10 a.m.; E-F-G at 10 a.m.; H-I at 11 a.m.; J at 12 noon; K-L at 1 p.m.; M-N at 1:30 p.m.; O-P-Q at 2 p.m.; R-S at 2:30 p.m.; T-U-V at 3:30 p.m.; W-X-Y, Z at 4:15 p.m.

Students are encouraged to read the 1981 spring semester brochure for their appointed registration time and for additional information on registration procedures.

Brochures and more information on registration can be obtained by telephoning 968-2100 or visiting the JSU Office of Admissions on the first floor of the Administration Tower Building.

Mississippi Valley State

Registration for the spring semester at Mississippi Valley State University in Itta Bena will be Jan. 7 and 12-14 in the Social Science Auditorium.

Classes will begin Thursday, Jan. 15.

Registrar Lawrence Sutton said this week, registration for graduate and evening class students will be from 6-8 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 13, in the Social Science Auditorium.

Continuing education students will register from 6-8 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 7, in the Leflore County Schools Educational Services Building in Greenwood.

Late registration fees will begin Monday, Jan. 19. Registration will close Friday, Jan. 23.

Students may pick up 'source documents,' which are being used in place of last year's packet of computer cards, in the Social Science Auditorium.

For further information call the registrar's office at 254-9041, extension 6435.

FINANCIAL AID
Students interested in obtaining financial aid to attend Mississippi Valley State are encouraged to apply now.

Students may receive financial assistance by applying for the Basic Educational Opportunity Grant, Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant, University Work-Aid Program, University Work-Study Program and State Student Incentive Grant.

Loans are also available for financial assistance. Any student may apply for the National Direct Student Loan.

Law enforcement majors may apply for aid from the Law Enforcement Loan and Grant Program.

The Financial Aid Office is located in the Student Personnel Section of the new Education Classroom Building.

For additional information regarding financial aid, write or call the director of financial aid at P.O. Box 1054, MVSU, Itta Bena, 38941; phone 254-9041, extension 6538.

CO-HOSTS — Jim Henson, creator of the Muppets, and Kermit the Frog are co-hosts of 'Here Come the Puppets,' a special program taped at the 1980 World Puppetry Festival. The program can be seen at 8 p.m., Sunday, January 4, on the Mississippi ETV Network.

Educators discuss assistance by PRC

High school superintendents and officials from schools within Pearl River Junior College's supporting district met at the Poplarville School recently to discuss better ways Pearl River College can assist their particular systems.

Dr. Charles Holladay, Mississippi's state superintendent of education, served as chairperson of the morning meeting.

"Money has been tight and it's going to get tighter," Holladay said.

"We need to look at ways we can help our children," he noted.

Holladay, pledged the full support of PRC's facilities and staff in fulfilling needs of the high schools.

Holladay suggested, as an example, PRC may be able to offer special education type programs and serviced for multiple handicapped children with aid from the State Department of Education.

Enoch Seal Jr., academic dean of the college, suggested his PRC faculty could act as consultants to high school teachers.

"We'll provide workshops and send qualified faculty members to your school if this is the type assistance you need," Seal said.

Miller Hammill, dean of student affairs, suggested better orientation of what college life is all about on the high school level would help.

He also encouraged high school staffs to inform PRC officials of problem areas.

The high school superintendents favored meeting on a more regular basis at the Pearl River campus.

"This will give us a chance to discuss our particular problems with each other as well as with PRC," said Charles F. Stewart of Poplarville.

Pearl River College is presently working on a brochure listing services and facilities available as well as consultants available in the different academic, vocational-technical areas.

Area residents named to Carey dean's lists

Some local students were among 26 at William Carey College on the Coast in Gulfport earning places on fall term Dean's Lists.

Dean's List I includes those undergraduate students who have maintained grade point averages of 3.5 or above out of a possible 4.0. Undergraduates with averages of 3.0 to 3.49 are included on Dean's List II.

Area students who have earned this honor are Jefferson Fairley from Pass Christian, Dean's List II; Dorris Steffen from Long Beach, Dean's List II; and Pamela Zetterkopf from Bay St. Louis, Dean's List II.

USM plans summer branch in London

The University of Southern Mississippi will have a branch campus here for the summer of 1981 as part of the Institute of Anglo-American Studies coordinated by Dr. William Taylor.

The students and faculty who go to England this summer will be housed on the St. Mark and St. John Campus of Chelsea College, University of London, said Taylor, who expects 135-145 students.

As well as taking students and faculty to England to learn from eminent British Scholars, British scholars are also brought to the USM campus.

In the summer session of five weeks, the Honors College and the Departments of Criminal Justice, Economics, English, Finance, History, Library Science, Philosophy, Political Science, and Sociology will offer lectures by British authorities and supervised research.

"The Institute opens up a tremendous area for intellectual growth of the University," said Vice President for Academic Affairs Charles Moorman. "This program, which is probably unique in the United States, makes use of the best qualified scholars in England."

The program began in 1976 with 26 students and had 30 in 1977. These first two courses were sponsored by the legal section of the British Academy of Forensic Sciences and were aimed at Criminal Justice students.

In 1979 the first interdisciplinary program was begun by the Departments of Criminal Justice Economics, Philosophy and Political Science with 56 students and five professors.

Taylor, a graduate of the University of London, said that the program has grown in reputation as well as size.

Other planned facets of the program include a junior year abroad program and beginning this summer a chance for faculty from USM and other universities to study in England in their disciplines.

"An excellent form of faculty development," said Taylor. Dr. David Paul, her majesty's coroner for the City of London, recently presented a workshop at USM and three days of lectures at the University of Mississippi Medical Center.

In the spring Dr. Kenneth

Bourne, the foremost British authority on Victorian foreign policy, will teach two courses at USM.

The program also has a publications board to whom scholars can submit manuscripts on Anglo-American culture to be published.

Plans for 1982 show further expansion and diversification with the Departments of Foreign Language, Marketing, Music, Radio, Television and Film and Speech and Hearing Sciences to be included in the summer courses in London.

For information write Director, Institute of Anglo-American Studies, Southern Station, Box 5136, Hattiesburg, Mississippi 39401. Telephone (601) 266-4100 or 266-7386.

Ole Miss offering journalism grants

Some 10 aspiring student journalists will receive grants for study next year at The University of Mississippi under the Publishers Scholars Program which is entering its third year of operation at Ole Miss. Deadline for applications for the scholarships is March 1, 1981.

"The program was established by the University of Mississippi Foundation's Mississippi Journalism Fund to assist promising student journalists," an Ole Miss spokesman said recently.

"Recipients will be announced March 27, during the Mississippi Scholastic Press Institute at Ole Miss. They will receive $300 scholarships, renewable year-to-year for four years based on a review of their work," the spokesman added.

Any student majoring in journalism at Ole Miss during 1981 is eligible.

"Interested students should apply to The University of Mississippi Department of Journalism and include a resume and samples of their journalistic work," the spokesman explained.

The Mississippi Journalism Fund was established in November 1977 to enrich journalism education at Ole Miss by providing financial support for scholarships and research.

The fund was organized by a group of Mississippi publishers to aid the Ole Miss Department of Journalism.

Civil rights leader cites black education

The eighth annual Political Awareness Day at Jackson State University, sponsored by the Political Science Club at JSU, featured the Reverend Jesse Jackson, founder of 'Operation PUSH' and one of the foremost advocates of political awareness in the nation.

Jackson spoke to a crowd of more than 5,000 persons recently at the University Plaza.

Jackson made several comments about historically black colleges and universities.

"All of us cannot be famous, because all of us cannot be well-known. But all of us can be great, because we can serve. And greatness is in service," Jackson said.

"Black colleges are great, because there are no other universities who accept as their mission educating the children of former slaves and victims of colonialism," he stated.

"Every school has a special mission and the mission of Jackson State, A&T, Howard University, and other historically black colleges and universities is to educate blacks and all others who want to learn our truths, undergirded by Liberal Arts," he noted.

Jackson further explained that although 25 percent of all black college students are enrolled in historically black institutions, 50 percent of all black college graduates are graduated by historically black colleges.

"The black schools must get more than just money for student aid. Jackson State must get money for research, development and expansion," Jackson emphasized.

As a member of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, Jackson was one of the most visible leaders in the civil rights struggle, what is now termed the humanist struggle.

Presently, he heads Operation PUSH, an organization which he founded that emphasizes the brotherhood of mankind, and also, PUSH for Excellence, which emphasizes dedication to education among black youth in particular. Jackson, who said he hoped his speech would inform, inspire and direct, everybody had equal opportunity. Superior effort, superior efficiency, and highest determination will determine the winner in everything."

New ballet course offered at 'The W'

Mississippi University for Women in Columbus has a new major in dance with emphasis on ballet.

MUW's dance major is one of only two dance majors in the state and the only program emphasizing ballet. The University of Southern Mississippi in Hattiesburg dance program concentrates on contemporary dance.

"We chose ballet because regional ballet companies are enjoying at this point a resurgence of interest," said

Dr. Dorothy Burdeshaw, head of the renamed department of health, physical education, recreation and dance.

"Statistics indicate attendance at dance programs has increased from one million in 1964-65 to 20 million in 1978-79," she noted.

"For teachers, particularly those who are going to open dance studios, ballet is the foundation of the dance," Burdeshaw stated.

"The program is oriented toward training certified dance teachers rather than performers. The typical college dancer performing with a ballet company is not the primary goal. Very few will get the opportunity," Burdeshaw explained.

The MUW dance major is a 40-credit-hour program leading to a bachelor of arts degree. The program will provide a understanding of the human body.

"The idea is that a dancer takes themes often from historical events or mythology. It is important to know world literature and world history," Burdeshaw said.

The dance major also has science foundation, requiring students to take anatomy-physiology and kinesiology among others.

"We work on the premise that a person must not only know the art form but also must know the body and its mechanical-physiological workings," Burdeshaw stated.

"A student must understand the mechanics and physiology to know what is efficient good movement patterns," she said.

Burdeshaw reported the dance major added two new courses, history of dance and theater dance forms, to the catalog this past semester. Classes in choreography and classical variations will be offered this semester.

The fully implemented program will add seven new dance classes offered alternating semesters.

Leading the new program is Jozia Mieszkowski. Miss Mieszkowski replaced Ruth Hart, who retired as a dance instructor in May.

Rather than creating a host of new courses, the dance major utilizes a number of related courses offered by other departments. "Hart worked with those in theater and music to see that these courses complement our major," Burdeshaw said.

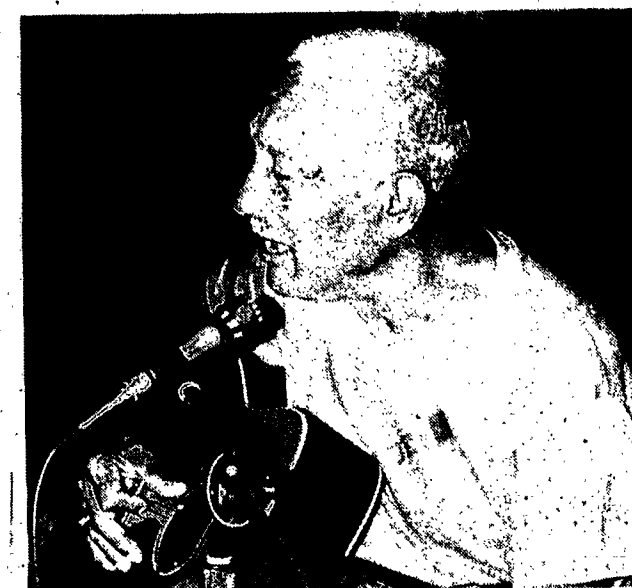

"Theater majors can cross over and take advantage of physical education courses also," she added.

Hart drafted the proposal for the new major in dance in 1978.

MISSISSIPPI DELTA BLUES

ALL-TIME GREATS—Recently some of the all-time greats in blues music gathered near Greenville, Miss. for the second annual Mississippi Delta Blues Festival. Like, clockwise beginning at upper left, Johnny Shines, foreground, and Robert Lockwood Jr.; Napoleon Strickland, fife, Abe Young, in white cap, and Jessie Mae Hemphill; and Eugene Powell. These artists and others can be seen on "Mississippi Delta Blues," a production of the Mississippi Center for Educational Television, on the Public Broadcasting Service (PBS) at 5 p.m., Sun., Jan. 4, on the Mississippi ETV Network.

PRC assisting 'older students'

Dr. A.C. Dauenhauer, Pearl River Junior College's academic counselor, has been meeting with students on campus in Poplarville who have been out of school for three or more years.

These meetings are designed to reassure these students as they work toward their scholastic goals.

"Most of these older students have families at home, and therefore have limited time to study," Dauenhauer said.

"These students mainly need self-confidence and most of them have been out of school for quite some time and simply weren't used to studying," he reported.

At these meetings students identify various problems they are having and then discuss different ways to cope with them.

"At the groups' gatherings, they see filmstrips on learning to study and discuss different means of adjusting to it," Dauenhauer said.

"When some of these students request help in their weak spots, they receive tutoring from members of Phi Theta Kappa and SPARC organizations here on campus," he added.

Perkinston starts forestry program

A forestry technology program will be offered in the spring semester at Gulf Coast Junior College's Perkinston Campus.

A college spokesman said recently, "The new, two-year program is aimed at preparing a student for employment as a timber cruiser-planter-harvester, or as a supervisor assisting in forestry management."

Billy J. Scarbrough, director of vocational-technical education at Perkinston, said registration will be from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. on Tuesday and the same time Wednesday, Jan. 6-7. Classes begin on Thursday, Jan. 8.

Courses include silviculture, forest protection, mensuration and silviculture.

Scarbrough may be contacted for additional information through the Perkinston Campus admissions office at Perkinston.

Local residents earn LSU degrees

Three local residents were among 1,310 graduates recently receiving degrees in commencement ceremonies at Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge.

Patricia Gex Dickinson of Bay St. Louis received an undergraduate degree from the College of Business Administration.

Elizabeth Dawn Eaves of Pass Christian received an undergraduate General College degree.

Marian Goodrich Cornell of Long Beach earned an undergraduate degree from the College of Design. Among the graduates were 37 students who were awarded doctoral degrees, and 27 awarded the Juris Doctor degree.

Leading the 1,000-student undergraduate class were four students who earned perfect grades for all their college courses and were presented the University Medal for their achievement.

The graduating students, who represented 54 parishes, also came from 35 states and 30 countries.

FAREWELL—A special gala program commemorating Beverly Sills' farewell to the New York City Opera will be presented "Live from Lincoln Center" at 8 p.m., Monday, January 5, on the Mississippi ETV Network. Joining her will be Carol Burnett, Sherrill Milnes, Bobby Short and others. METV is aired on Channel 19 and Hancock Cable Channel 13.

January 1 New Year dates back to 1500

By JOE PILET
Today "the twain shall meet."
On this date, January 1, New Year's Day is celebrated in China, Japan and the United States.
This date became recognized in 1500 when the Gregorian Calendar was introduced.
Throughout the ages all nations have set aside a time for celebration of a New Year. There are, however, a wide range of selected dates.

Our own celebration is patterned after the Romans. Their god Janus, for whom our month of January was named, had two faces.
He was the god of the gates and doors. He looked back on what had happened during the past year. At the same time he looked forward to what might be in the year to come.

Things from the past year thought to be good were kept, that which was thought to be worthless, or erroneous, was to be forgotten.
The Roman emperor was especially honored on this date. There was merriment, gift giving and expressions of good wishes.

The English "borrowed" this Roman custom in the 1200's, and the famous glove collection of Queen Elizabeth I (which consisted of hundreds of pairs of richly embroidered or jewel bedecked gloves) were New Year's Day gifts from her subjects.
Pilgrims brought the custom from the mother-country and on New Year's Eve thousands gather at Times Square in New York to welcome the beginning of another year, and throughout the land there are gatherings, rejoicings, welcoming another year, another milestone.

New Year's Day is that magical time when old debts are somehow cancelled...old grudges buried, old mistakes and errors gone - past - forgotten - perhaps forgiven.
New Year's Day is that magical time when new hopes are born, friendships sealed, and inspirations awakened in the hearts and minds of the populace.
All roads still lead to Rome; however, we have discovered The Appian Way is a two-way highway.
The power of Janus to guard our gates and doors is within our reach.
We call this power forgiveness...hope, love, charity.
When properly exercised this power can give us the things we wish for - these good things of life which include health, prosperity, friendships and the opportunity to make a contribution of those talents we each have.

Today we join East with West in the Universal Wish - so old and yet so new:

AND A HAPPY NEW YEAR

Wildlife Federation presses for stronger air protections

The National Wildlife Federation has joined a nationwide campaign to press Congress for passage of a "strong and fair" federal Clean Air Act in 1981.
With the Clean Air Act of 1970 up for Congressional renewal and some industries pressing for relaxation of air quality standards they criticize as too costly, many conservationists see the fight for renewal of the landmark anti-pollution law as the most important environmental battle they will face next year.
NWF, the nation's largest citizens conservation group, is joining a coalition of conservation, labor, consumer, and civic groups "to help make the public more aware of the harmful effects of air pollution on man and wildlife and of the benefits of the clean air law under which we have made so much progress in the past decade," said Thomas L. Kimball, executive vice president of the federation.
"While industries complain that they cannot afford to comply with clean air regulations, they fail to mention how much consumers have to pay to repair air pollution damage," he said.

"The Council on Environmental Quality has found that while Americans spent $16 billion to comply with federal clean air standards in 1978, they saved $21 billion in health and property expenditures."
Kimball cited acid rain - precipitation turned acidic by emissions of sulfur dioxide and nitrogen oxide - as one of the most pressing air pollution problems.
"Acid rain has killed all the fish in half the high-altitude lakes in upstate New York and 140 Ontario lakes, and threatens to ruin thousands of lakes in some of our most famous parks and wilderness areas," he explained.
"And damage from acid rain causes million dollar losses for the fishing and tourism industries. Our present federal Clean Air Act must be strengthened to address this critical and expensive problem."
Aside from the obvious harm air pollution has on human health, Kimball pointed out that a recent U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service study found evidence of air pollution's ill effects on wildlife.

The NWF hopes to work with the National Clean Air Coalition and industry and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to find ways to improve Clean Air regulations, Kimball emphasized.
"We think EPA has shown itself to be very flexible in working with industry," he said, "and so are we."
The NWF will be working with its "grassroots" affiliates in Mississippi and the other states to emphasize the importance of a "strong and fair" Clean Air Act, Kimball said.
"There's no question that deterioration of air quality in many cities has been halted. The clean air campaign wants to insure that this progress continues and that everyone understands that an effective Clean Air Act is a must for the 1980's."
Recent public opinion polls, Kimball said, show that the American people "still want the protection of anti-pollution laws even though some segments of industry have tried to portray them as costly and unworkable."
Kimball cited a 1980 survey by the University of Chicago's National Opinion Research Center in which 50 percent of the respondents said that "too little" money was spent on environmental problems and only 15 percent thought the amount spent was "too much."

Kimball cited another national survey, conducted this year by Resources for the Future, in which a plurality of respondents thought environmental protection was too important to consider its cost.
Presented with three alternatives, a startling 42 percent chose the one which read: "Protecting the environment is so important that requirements and standards cannot be too high, and continuing improvement must be made regardless of cost."
Other national groups that have joined the clean air campaign include the American Lung Association, Environmental Policy Center, Friends of the Earth, League of Women Voters, National Audubon Society, National Parks and Conservation Association, Natural Resources Defense Council, Sierra Club, and United Steelworkers.

MYSTERY! — Vincent Price, the debonair master of suspense, is the host of this season's "Mystery!" on Mississippi ETV. This season premieres with a two-part dramatization of "The Strange Case of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" at 9 p.m., Tuesdays, January 6 and 13, Channel 19 on the Coast and Hancock Cable Channel 13.

MISSISSIPPI WEEKLY WEATHER & CROP REPORT

LIVESTOCK SLAUGHTER

Livestock slaughter during November totaled 194,400 head weighing 60,005,000 pounds liveweight, the Mississippi Crop and Livestock Reporting Service announced recently. This is 5,200 head less but 1,745,000 pounds more than the same month last year.

The November slaughter consisted of 20,500 cattle weighing 18,149,000 pounds liveweight; 2,100 calves weighing 1,080,000 pounds liveweight; 171,800 hogs weighing 40,776,000 pounds liveweight. The average liveweight per head of animals slaughtered was cattle 884, calves 517, and hogs 237 pounds.

Commercial production of red meat totaled 37,783,000 pounds during November, 16 percent below October and unchanged from November 1979. The January-November 1980 red meat production totaled 417,779,000 pounds, 16 percent above 1979.

UNITED STATES

Commercial red meat production for the United States during November 1980 totaled 3.10 billion pounds, down six percent from November 1979, according to the Crop Reporting Board.

The January-November red meat production at 35.2 billion pounds was three percent more than last year.

The 1980 accumulated production changes by individual components were: beef, up one percent; veal, down nine percent; pork, up eight percent; lamb and mutton, up eight percent. Commercial red meat production includes slaughter in federally inspected and other plants, but excludes animals slaughtered on farms.

Kill days for November included 20 weekdays (two were holidays) and five Saturdays (two were holidays) and four Sundays a year ago.

HOGS, PIGS

Mississippi's inventory of hogs and pigs is estimated at 410,000 head on Dec. 1, 1980, according to the Mississippi Crop and Livestock Reporting Service. This is one percent above a year earlier, and eight percent more than Dec. 1, 1978.

Number kept for breeding hogs at 70,000 is up nine percent from a year ago but four percent below two years ago.

Number for market, at 340,000, is unchanged from last year but nine percent above Dec. 1, 1978.

1980 Pig Crop: Mississippi's pig crop for 1980 totaled 579,000 head, two percent above a year earlier and 12 percent above the 1978 pig crop.

December 1979 - May 1980 pig crop, estimated at 298,000 head, is five percent above a year earlier and 27 percent above two years ago. The December - May sows farrowed at 42,000 was five percent above a year earlier and 24 percent above 1978.

June-November 1980 pig crop, estimated at 281,000 head, is the same as a year ago and the June-November 1978 crop. The June-November sows farrowed at 42,000 was eight percent above the 1979 and 1978.

Farrowing Intentions: Mississippi Hog producers intend to farrow 40,000 sows during the December 1980 - May 1981 period, five percent below the same period a year earlier but 18 percent above two years ago.

The value of all hogs and pigs was $28,495,000 48 percent above 1979. The value per head was $69.50 compared with $47.50 in 1979. There were 21,000 farm operations with hogs in 1980, 11 percent above a year earlier.

UNITED STATES

U.S. inventory of all hogs and pigs is estimated at 64.5 million head on Dec. 1, according to the Crop Reporting Board. This is four percent below a year ago but seven percent more than Dec. 1, 1978.

Breeding inventory at 9.16 million is five percent below two years ago and Dec. 1, 1978.

Market hog inventory at 55.4 million is four percent fewer than a year earlier but nine percent more than two years ago.

The U.S. pig crop for 1980 totaled 101.6 million head, one percent below 1979 but 15 percent above the 1978 pig crop.

December 1979 - May 1980 pig crop, estimated at 52.3 million head, is up three percent from a year earlier and 23 percent above two years ago.

June-November 1980 pig crop, estimated at 49.3 million head, is five percent fewer than a year ago but seven percent above the June-November 1978 crop.

A total of 6.84 million sows farrowed during June-

May 1981 period, six percent below both a year ago and the same period two years ago.

These intentions and projected litter size indicate a pig crop of 48.5 million, seven percent below 1980 and four percent below the December 1978 - May 1979 crop.

BROILER-TYPE

Hatcheries in the state set 6,125,000 eggs for broiler chicks during the week ending Dec. 13, four percent above the previous week but five percent below the corresponding week a year ago.

There were 5,792,000 broiler chicks placed on Mississippi farms during the week ending Dec. 13, four percent above the previous week and seven percent above the corresponding week a year ago.

Cumulative placements for 1980 are 283,194,000 broiler chicks—two percent above a year earlier.

EGG-TYPE

Hatcheries in the state set 189,000 eggs for egg-type chicks during the week ending Dec. 13, 42 percent above the previous week but 30 percent below the comparable week a year ago. Hatch of egg-type chicks was 108,000 four percent below the previous week and 60 percent below the 270,000 hatched during the comparable week a year ago.

In the five states that accounted for about 26 percent of the hatch of all egg-type chicks in the U.S. in 1979, settings during the week ending Dec. 13, were up six percent but hatchings were down 14 percent from a year ago.

CHICKENS, EGGS

Mississippi's 6,779,000 layers produced 134 million eggs in November 1980, according to the Mississippi Crop and Livestock Reporting Service. This was three percent above the 130 million eggs produced in November 1979.

Of these, 103 million were Table Eggs, the remaining 31 million were Hatching Eggs.

Broiler-type chicks hatched in Mississippi during November totaled 22,317,000, (13 percent) above the November 1979 hatch. The hatch of egg-type chicks was 830,000 (26 percent) below the 1,106,000 egg-type chicks hatched in November 1979.

There were 23,494,000 young chickens slaughtered under Federal Inspection during October 1980 in Mississippi. This is five percent below the 24,746,000 inspected during October 1979. October Post Mortem condemnations were 1.57 percent, as compared to 1.92 percent in October 1979.

YULE TREES PROFITABLE

Why do most Mississippi Christmas Trees come from faraway places? Because only a few Mississippi farmers know how profitable they can be.

Why are some northern Christmas tree growers interested in expanding their operations into Mississippi? Because they do know.

What area of the nation can grow Christmas trees fastest? The deep South - unquestionably!

Christmas trees today, a renewable resource, constitute a strong extra farm crop for landowners who enjoy selling what they produce for good prices with little fluctuation in either demand or prices - and are willing to care for their crop for three to five years before they are ready for the market.

In recent weeks Christmas joy oriented families across this nation have bought approximately 35 million trees. Michigan and Ohio are among the top Christmas tree producing states in the nation that have supplied the largest share of those trees. By far most of the estimated 750,000 Christmas trees utilized in Mississippi homes this year came from the north on huge transport trucks. Many of the trees were harvested as early as August. Virtually all were painted green and embalmed, so to speak, so they would hold up during cutting, grading, bundling, warehousing, trucking, delivery to plantings with such obstructions - as stumps removed. Seedlings then are planted in rows checkerboard fashion with spacing of six to eight feet between trees. Many growers flag their trees the first year or so to prevent them from being lost in first year grass or weeds. Grass and weed control is essential to keep the seedlings from being shaded out or deprived of nutrients and moisture.

Spring and summer culture includes grass and weed control, limited fertilization at the rate of about 300 pounds of mixed fertilizer per acre, insect control, and shearing to desired shape as the trees grow. They require considerable hand labor and oftentimes when the weather is hot or fish are biting - another reason Mississippi is a deficit Christmas tree growing state.

Investment is not heavy, so the lack of annual production loan capital usually is no big problem. And too, it probably is good judgement for most growers to start with a relatively small acreage so that species chosen may be proven on the site and the operators' inclination to care for them properly becomes matter-of-fact - before heavy investments are made.

WEIGHT-OFF-WISELY

Losing weight in a hurry, in addition to being unsuccessful in most cases, may also be dangerous.

Fad diets, pills and gadgets which more and more people are turning to in an effort to take off pounds often lead to inadequate nutrition and poor health, says Darlene Underwood, Hancock County Extension Home Economist.

"Some people who try these things don't lose anything but money," she adds.

Underwood explains it takes a steady "nutritionally-balanced diet to take weight off and keep it off, and this idea is built into the program she will begin here Jan. 6.

The program, called "Weight-Off-Wisely" or WOW, was developed by the Food and Nutrition Specialists of the University of Georgia.

It is an educational program combining basic nutrition and personal improvement with dieting, group interacting, and exercising which is optional.

Each weekly session will include a class discussion.

Underwood says participants will be expected to keep certain weight and diet records.

The extension home economist says 10 persons have been registered for the program since it was announced a week ago. There is room for 20 more, and they have until Jan. 6, to meet the registration deadline.

Although most of the students are expected to be women, men are also encouraged to participate if they are at least 10 percent overweight. A physical examination is required by a private physician.

The first session is scheduled for Monday at 10:00 a.m. It will be in the Extension Building Auditorium in Bay St. Louis.

Citing the need for Weight-Off-Wisely, Underwood says, half of the adults 30 years of age and older are overweight.

"This means they are 10 to 20 percent above the desirable weight for their height, bone structure, muscular development and age. Anyone too heavy by 20 percent or more is considered obese. One-third of all adult males in Hancock County are in this category and 40 percent of all women are obese by the time they are 40," she reported.

Underwood says medical authorities consider obesity "one of the greatest problems in preventive medicine today. Excessive weight is closely related to heart and kidney diseases, degenerative arthritis, gout and gall bladder trouble. In addition to being a health hazard, overweightness is also a physical handicap. Obese people are more uncomfortable in hot weather because the thick layers of fat serve as an insulator.

The overweight person has to put out more effort to do the same amount of work as a person of proper weight. Overweight people are also more accident prone, and there are indications that they are more subject to fatigue, backache and foot troubles.

Underwood says the key word in new extension weight reduction and maintenance program is "wisely."

"One should lose weight only through sensible dieting and realistic exercise," she explains.

"This rules out skipping meals or going on crash diets. You can diet and lose weight without starving yourself to death," Underwood adds.

A major objective of WOW, however, is to maintain desirable weight once it is reached. Improvement in personal appearance is also an important part of the program, and this is the objective of sessions in fashion awareness and good grooming.

Anyone wanting additional information about WOW may contact Underwood, at her office in the Agriculture Building in Bay St. Louis or by calling the Extension Service at 467-5456.

LANDSCAPING CLASSES. The Hancock County Extension Service is sponsoring landscaping classes each Tuesday evening in January, 6:30 p.m.-8:30 p.m., starting Jan. 6.

John Davis, Area Horticulture Specialist, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, will instruct the eight hour course.

The course will cover planning use areas around the home, site analysis, taking soil samples, selection, placement and care of shrubs and trees. Also, class participants will learn to draw up a plot plan for their homesite and propagation of ornamentals.

Class size will be limited to 30 so each participant will have some individualized instruction. Pre-registration is required. Contact the Hancock County Extension Home Economist Office at 405 Necaise Avenue, Bay St. Louis, or telephone 467-5456 to register.

THE STATE OF MISSISSIPPI COUNTY OF HANCOCK NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE

WHEREAS, on the 25th day of August, 1977, Lynn H. Lolael and Corinne C. Lolael executed a deed of trust to Joseph W. Gex, Trustee, to secure an indebtedness therein mentioned in favor of La. Capitol Federal Credit Union, which deed of trust is duly recorded in Book 203, pages 93-96, Records of Mortgages and Deeds of Trust on Land, Hancock County, Mississippi; and

WHEREAS, the beneficiary in said deed of trust, La. Capitol Federal Credit Union, has substituted the undersigned, Robert L. Genin, Jr., as substituted trustee instead of the said Joseph W. Gex, which substitution is recorded in Book 231, pages 807-4, of the aforesaid mortgage records; and

WHEREAS, default having been made in the payment of said indebtedness, and the said La. Capitol Federal Credit Union, the legal holder of said indebtedness, having requested the undersigned substituted trustee to foreclose on said deed of trust for the purpose of paying said indebtedness and costs; NOW THEREFORE, I, will, on the 1st day of January, 1981, within legal hours, offer for sale and sell to the highest bidder for cash at the front door of the Hancock County Courthouse in Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, the following described property situated in Hancock County, Mississippi, described as follows, to-wit:

Beginning at a point at the NW corner of the SW 1/4 of the NW 1/4 of Section 34, thence East 15 chains (990 feet) to a point; thence South 5 degrees West 10 chains (660 feet) to a point; thence North 5 degrees East 10 chains (660 feet) to the place of beginning; containing 15 acres, in the NW 1/4 of NW 1/4 of Section 34, Township 8 South, Range 14 West, Hancock County, Mississippi.

Together with all and singular, the rights, privileges, improvements and appurtenances to the same belonging or in any wise appertaining.

I will convey only such title as is vested in me as Substituted Trustee. ADVERTISED, POSTED AND DATED, this, the 11th day of December, A.D., 1980.

Early farms were self-contained economic units

By S. GRADY THIGPEN

Living as we do now, when almost everyone gets all, or almost all, of his food and other supplies from stores, it is hard to realize that, within the memory of many people now living, all the people in the rural areas produced their own food and many other things they now buy from stores.

A farm 75 years ago was a self-contained, and self-supporting economic unit. Back when I grew up practically all the food we had was produced on the farm.

We bought flour, soda, salt and a very few other things out of stores. In fact, food was a small part of the goods sold in stores back then.

On my father's farm we could have gotten along alright if there had been no food in stores. There was always plenty corn for corn bread, plenty meat year round from hogs, cattle, chickens and an abundance of wild game.

There was lots of fruit of almost every kind and big quantities were preserved, dried, or otherwise saved up for winter use.

Potatoes, both sweet and Irish, were carefully banked and stored for winter. The best home made syrup in the world was cooked and stored in barrels until needed.

There was always plenty of good pure food, with no adulterations, preservatives or additives such as you find so much of today.

Practically all the clothes worn by the family were made at home. Men's suits and shoes were about the only kind of ready made things bought at the store, all the other things being made by the women of the family.

I wore stockings knitted at home and I don't think I ever had a pair of store bought pants until I was up at least around 12 years old.

I often wonder what people would do, in this highly specialized age, when we have forgotten how to do things for ourselves, if we should have war that destroyed our transportation like what happened in the civil war, or if the big rail unions would strike and tie up everything.

In either case the people would be starving in a short time. Back when I can first remember, sixty to seventy years ago, people were much more self-dependent and able to take care of themselves than they are now.

Sometimes I think we have lost more in self-dependence and self-confidence, yes, and even in character, than we have gained with all our modern luxuries.

I think that it is most important that we do not lose sight of, or forget the heritage of our heroic past.

Men and women a hundred to 200 years ago came into this wild land of unbroken forests in wagons, on horseback and on foot. They staked out claims, built log cabins, cleared the land and raised big families.

They did all this without any of the modern tools and modern conveniences such as we have today. A man 100 years ago had his axe, and ox teams, or maybe a horse team, home made plows and harrows and a hoe.

With such tools, he built his own house himself, cleared his own land, split the rails for his fence, planted his crop by hand—none of the modern tools farmers use today were available to him.

The woman of the house usually bore many children while, at the same time keeping house for her family, doing the laundry by hand, spinning the cloth to make clothes and doing numberless other things that women today do not have to do.

Looking back now from our times of almost every conceivable luxury, and life of ease, it is hard to even imagine that our grandmothers, and the mothers of people my age lived such hard pioneer lives.

In the old days in every community, or within a day's round trip with team, there were craftsmen of various kinds—a gun smith to fix guns, an essential item in every home in pioneer days.

Also there was always a blacksmith nearby—a pioneer community could hardly have gotten along without a blacksmith. The blacksmith in our community was a real mechanic.

He could do anything needed in a community like that from sharpening plows to filling wagon wheels. He constructed all the coffins, and it was said that he never charged anyone for this service. There was a grist mill about a mile from our house.

Mill day was on Saturday and there was always a lot of people there waiting to have their corn ground. There was a cotton gin in connection with the grist mill and in season there would be a line-up of wagons loaded with cotton waiting to get it ginned.

In the little community where I lived there was one family that set aside a room for drummers, and other transients, serving as the inn, or hotel.

Near the grist mill and grist mill there was one fair sized well stocked country store, and another smaller store.

Among the many things they carried in stock were gun powder, caps, blank shells, shot for loading gun shells and lead to be used for making bullets to go in the old cap and ball rifles.

The stores of that day carried in stock the necessary drugs, such as castor oil, calomel, blue mass, vermifuge, salts and a few other items—there was no drugstore anywhere near us.

The old time country merchants were very practical men and usually men of the highest honor. The two merchants in that community served as bankers for the people.

My father used to leave money with them, getting receipt for it, with as much confidence as we now deposit money in the banks of this day.

I worked for an old time country merchant for a time once. When I applied for the job, he asked me if I drank, or if I had a bird dog.

He said he never hired a man that drank for he would be off too much, always claiming he was sick and that he never hired a man who owned a bird dog because he would be always wanting to get off to go hunting.

When I can first remember there was an old doctor living near us. He had a long tan-colored beard, wore a derby hat and a long frock-tailed coat.

I remember him once coming to our house. The first thing he did was to order boiling water. He pulled off his coat and carefully folded it up and laid it on a bed, he placed his derby by it and then rolled up his sleeves as he waited for the boiling water. What all this was about I do not remember. While I was still a small boy, president Cleveland appointed the old doctor to a job in the U.S. public health service and he moved away.

After that we had to go about seven or eight miles to get a doctor. Only in case of serious illness would the doctor be sent for.

This new doctor was a good one, so everybody said, but he would sometimes drink too much.

On one occasion when I was nine or ten-years-old, I was sent on a horse to get this doctor.

When I got "there" his daughter told me that he had drunk too much and was not able to go, but that as soon as he sobered up he would make the trip to our house.

Sure enough, late that evening he arrived with one of his sons driving his buggy for him.

The doctors back then pulled all the teeth—there was no dentist anywhere near us, however one would come around about once a year with his equipment in a buggy and fill teeth, or pull them as the condition demanded.

The Baptist church where I lived was the social center as well as the religious center of the community.

The once a month preaching service would usually be well attended as this was about the only public meeting of any kind in that area.

People would get to church early and visit with one another, and then stay after the service was over to visit some more.

We lived near the church and my parents always invited one and all to dinner.

On church day we almost always had company for Sunday dinner, sometimes as many as 10 to 15 people.

My mother expected them and made preparations in advance.

While people were very religious and would not think of trading horses on Sunday, many a horse trade got started at church by some man remarking that he had a nice saddle animal, or plow horse, that he did not need.

Some other man who wanted such an animal, either to use or to trade would say, "See you at the grist mill Saturday."

We hardly realize gradual changes as we adapt to them as they come along, but when you look back from an eminence of years, the changes that have taken place are startling.

TRIPLE VALUE BEEF

"High quality, low price in our TRIPLE VALUE BEEF! It's inspected twice by the USDA — once in the Midwest where we buy it, then again when we receive it. It's extra-trimmed, leaving just enough marbling for flavor. Excess bone and fat are removed before it's weighed. You pay for pure, lean beef... not excess bone, and fat! Your satisfaction is guaranteed! If you're not completely satisfied we'll replace the cut or give you your money back.

the more you'll like about JITNEY!

GOOD ANY WAY YOU SLICE IT.

And we guarantee it.

When you choose produce, demand the very best. Sometimes a cheaper price means cheaper quality—undersize avocados, limp heads of lettuce, smaller grapes that are less plump, sweet and juicy. And that's no bargain.

But the quality is never cheap at Jitney. It's always up to our high standards...and yours. "The highest possible quality at the lowest possible price." That's how we define excellent value in fresh produce.

Get your money's worth, or get your money back.
